Aier 2020

Purity

The essence of a unique grape variety

Aier is the purest expression of our Tinta de Toro, a grape variety marked by a unique character that we managed to reveal thanks to a differential winemaking and aging process in stoneware ceramics. An ancestral wine that is able to transmitting the soul of its origin.

Vintage 2020

Warm year with a mild winter that gave way to a rainy spring and allowed the optimum bud sprouting in mid-April. Mild summer with well-distributed rains, the ripening began in mid-August. The harvest with low yields and high quality began on 14th September.

Vineyard and soils

Made exclusively from the grapes that come from our Finca el Sol, plot with old vines planted manually and on “pie franco” (without graft) in 1978. This vineyard is managed in an integrated way, respecting the natural cycles and with minimal intervention. This extraordinary spot shows sand on the surface and a clay layer on the deep ground. The grape ripening stands out for its small size and unique character, expressing the essence of our Tinta de Toro like no other.

Winemaking and aging

With this differential winemaking we are looking for integrity, respect and purity. Manual harvest with double selection: in the vineyard and in the cellar. The fermentation is carried out with part of the clusters and at a low temperature for more than a month, seeking to maximize the mineral expression of our grape variety.

Final aging is for 13 months in small 400-litres ceramic amphoras, that are made in the traditional way. During this process the aging on the lees takes place, that naturally provides the wine with volume, sweetness and structure.

This aging is accompanied by specific oxygen contributions in a precise and controlled way in order to the wine will mature while it maintains and expresses the notes that make it unique.

Bottled without clarifying or filtering. Limited production of 2,556 bottles.

Tasting Notes

This wine is unique and surprising. In the visual phase it presents intense and very vivid purplish-red colour. Powerful and deep aromas, standing out for the wild black fruit and the mineral notes typical of the grape variety that remember the ink and flint. Over time in the glass the intensity increases and the notes of currant and black pepper appear, that enhances its complexity. On the palate it is powerfull, complex and with personality. The absence of clarificaion and filtering provides full-bodied wine with softness, sweetness and long and intense aftertastes.

This vintage 2020 provides Aier a more fruity character, with notes of black fruit jam and a complex, tasty and structured palate.
